1 July 2018

TRUSTING THE DIVINE PHYSICIAN

At the core of today's gospel and first reading are how utterly foreign to the nature and will of God are death and illness. The wisdom proposed in the first reading, that sickness and death are utterly at variance with the ongoing plan of God, is clearly visible in the Master's saving action in the gospel. And the key phrase in today's gospel is one that sums up the pastoral activity of Christ throughout his earthly and resurrected life - 'Do not be afraid: only have faith.'

It is on this simple phrase that the whole passage hinges.

How much of life is fear? How much of life is doubt? Both engender fright or flight; the Master instructs the opposite. What is striking about the words of Jesus is both their authority and clarity. There is no fumbling here. The Son of Man acts swiftly and decisively.

Turning them all out, the scene is suddenly calmer. From a place where emotion, anxiety and unrestraint predominated at the time of his arrival, the parents and his own companions are now privy to a deeper understanding of life and the true nature of God; they enter a space where the miraculous occurs; all else - fear, lack of faith, unrestraint - is banished. The God of life acts.

The invitation this Sunday is to step into this space with Christ. Place sickness and death before him, as the parents of Jairus did. And allow him to put out of the room what is not helpful, and to show us what can happen when fears are banished and faith is present.

It is a centuries-long tradition of the Catholic Church to support the mission of the Pope. Pope Francis shows how the role of Pope can be unique in bringing the Christian message into our complex world. He shows us that we can live in a world where faith seems marginal and yet manage to touch hearts. He finds ways in which he can win hearts for what the teaching of Jesus involves, not through imposing and judging, but through winning and attracting.

Pope Francis reminds us "All of us, in truth, are called to water ourselves upon the rock that is the Lord and to quench the world's thirst with the charity that springs from Him. Charity is at the heart of the Church, it is the reason for its action, the soul of its mission."

I ask for your generosity in supporting the charities of Pope Francis. This year's collection replaces the usual Share collection. Thank you for the many ways you show charity and solidarity with those most in need in our world.
