

Hymns in November

1. Be not afraid

You shall cross the barren desert but you shall not die of thirst
You shall wander far in safety though you do not know the way You shall speak my Word to foreign people, they will understand
You shall see the face of God and live

Be not afraid,
I go before you always Come follow me
And I will give you rest

If you pass through raging waters in the sea you shall not drown
If you walk amid the burning flames
You shall not be harmed
If you stand before the power of hell
And death is at your side
Know that I am with you through it all

2. Christ be beside me

Christ be before me Christ be behind me, King of my heart, Christ be within me, Christ be below me, Christ be above me, never to part

Christ on my right hand, Christ on my left hand, Christ all around me, Shield in the strife, Christ in my sleeping, Christ in my sitting,
Christ in my rising, Light of my life

3. Nearer my God to thee

Nearer to thee, E'en though it be a cross That saveth me, Still all my soul shall be Nearer my God to thee
Nearer my God to Thee, Nearer to thee

Deep in thy sacred heart, Let me abide Thou who hast come for me, Suffered and died, Sweet shall my weeping be Grief surely leading me
Nearer my God to thee, Nearer to thee

4. Christ be our light

Longing for light
we wait in darkness,
longing for truth we turn to you.
Make us your own your holy people.
Light for the world to see.

Christ be our light, shine in our hearts shine through the darkness.
Christ be our light. Shine in your Church gathered today

Longing for peace, our world is troubled.
Longing for hope many despair. Your Word alone has power to save us.
Make us your living voice

5. I am the bread of life

You who come to me shall not hunger.
You who believe in me shall not thirst.
No one can come to me unless the Father beckon

And I will raise you up
and I will raise you up and I will raise you up on the last day.

The bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world and if you eat of this bread,
you shall live forever,
you shall live forever

Unless you eat of the flesh of the Son of man and drink of His blood
you shall not have life within you.

Thirty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

11 November 2018

An Inconvenient Grief

Mark Kelly was a draper's porter in 1911, single and living at home, by 1918 he was a married man with a daughter, but he died that October, just weeks before the end of the War. Joseph Loftus was an agricultural labourer in 1911, the middle child of a family of 7, by 1915, within a month of landing in Gallipoli, he was dead, and now lies in an unmarked grave, his only memorial a line on the Hellispont Memorial. William Ennis was a butcher's messenger boy in 1911, living in Prussia Street, by 1915, he was dead, his name recorded on the Ploegstreet Memorial, panel 9. Three of the 30, directly, or through a relative, connected with Phibsborough and a fraction of approximately 50,000 Irishmen who died in the Great War.

Alongside them are those who died and those who returned, maimed in body or in spirit, to rebuild their lives in the new and desperately poor Ireland. Gay Byrne, for one, says his abiding memory of growing up on Rialto Street was his father, a survivor of Ypres, waking, screaming, in the middle of the night – terror that his son believes was caused by the trauma of the war. Many Irish Families continued to live the Great War long after the guns became silent on Armistice Day 1918.

These stories of those effected by the War, casualties, survivors and their families were lost from our collective memory, public mourning for those who fought in the oppressor's army was an embarrassment, and even, to some, an insult. 100 years later, in this anniversary year at least, it is right to restore these men and their families to our public consciousness, thankful that to do so is no longer to express an inconvenient grief. The world order has totally been remade, Ireland is no longer defined by liberation from an Empire that no longer exists, and remembering those slaughtered in a dreadful war cannot detract from our identity as a proud and independent nation, or the particular honour we bestow to those who died creating it. In the public recalling of relatives killed in the Great War, we are simply remembering the individuals themselves, praying for their souls and asking God to spare us for ever a repeat of the dreadful carnage that took their lives. We are remembering those left widowed or orphaned or those who relived the trenches in a father's trauma. At this remove, they too, most now themselves dead, deserve to be remembered as part of our commemoration of the terrible tragedy of the War to end Wars.

May their Souls, and the Souls of all the Faithful departed dead in War through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen
